February 20, 2014: WAC is so fortunate to have such high caliber folks wishing to offer their area of expertise as volunteers in helping us grow and flourish. Just like our Board of Directors, these advisors\(http://www.wallowaavalanchecenter.org/node/11\) contribute countless hours to further WAC's important avalanche safety mission.

So it is that we welcome our newest advisor Tesmond Hurd to our organization. Tesmond has already been offering much needed help over the last year or so to Julian (our Deputy Director and webmaster). The result of Tesmond's work can be seen recently with a brand new headliner banner on our homepage, our donor pop-up, reformatted home page for better viewing of important information, and a host of other behind the scenes improvements that aren't readily obvious to the viewer.

Tesmond is the founder and CEO of La Grande Weather Service.\(http://www.lgdws.com/\) This weather service is an independent and complete weather source covering the entire NE region of Oregon. Much of what Tesmond offers in expertise to WAC came from his entrepreneurial launch of this weather service. Additionally he helps man a ham radio from La Grande Weather Service headquarters when WAC Observers are in the mountains, thereby providing a valuable safety net where cell service is non-existent. Thanks Tesmond for volunteering your help.

Keith
